Multi-factor Authentication (MFA)
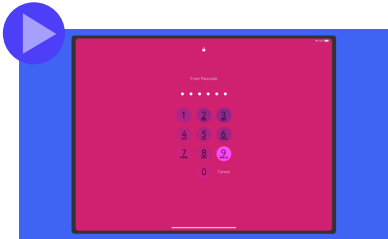

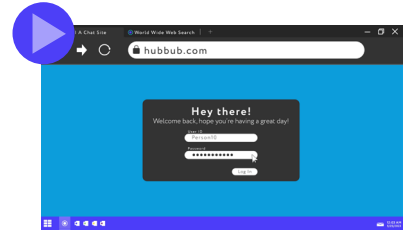

Multi-Factor Authentication is a process of identifying a specific users identity through multiple credentials that only the user knows or has access to. MFA adds an extra layer of security and helps maintain email, gaming, banking, social media and any other personal accounts safe.
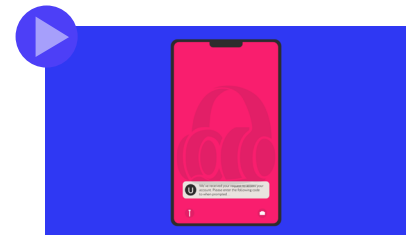

1. What is multi-factor authentication?

It's simply another way of proving you are you

2. Something you know

Password or a Pin Number

3. Something you have

Phone or USB key

4. Something you are

Fingerprint or other biometric

CYBER.ORG
THE ACADEMIC INITIATIVE OF THE CYBER INNOVATION CENTER

CYBERSECURITY & INFRASTRUCTURE SECURITY AGENCY
CISA